ESTATE OF SHOCK

TWO homes destroyed
FOUR uninhabitable
SIX are left damaged

STUNNED residents this week told how the community has been turned upside down by a blaze that ripped through their estate.

Two homes were completely destroyed, four left uninhabitable and six damaged after a terraced house in Berecroft was deliberately set on fire, causing flames to spread quickly to neighbouring properties.

Five fire crews were sent to the scene at around 11.30pm on Thursday and spent six hours tackling the inferno. Witness described the flames soaring 30ft into the night sky.

Amazingly nobody was injured but up to 40 residents were evacuated. Many were put up in the Latton Bush Centre overnight while they arranged alternative temporary accommodation.

Harlow Council and South Anglia Housing Association which owns some of the buildings, have been liaising with residents most affected to arrange alternative housing for the foreseeable future until their homes are made habitable.

It is understood the occupants of the house in which the fire started were on holiday at the time of the blaze.

Graham Birch (38), who lives opposite the terrace ravaged by the inferno, said: "Luckily we were awake at the time and we heard a lot of smashing of

Evil dad raped his daughter and fathered her 2 children

A DEPRAVED dad who had sex with his daughter over a 33-year period and had two children by her faces life in prison for incest, rape and indecent assault.

The 68-year-old Harlow man, who cannot be named to protect the identity of the victim, pleaded guilty to a total of 18 charges when he appeared at Chelmsford Crown Court on Tuesday.

He admitted two counts of incest, two rapes, 12 indecent assaults and two charges of indecency with a child.

Samantha Leigh, prosecuting, said the charges covered a period from July 4, 1971 to July 3, 2004. Sexual activity began when the girl was just seven and continued until she finally managed to move out of the home they shared with their two children.

She confided to a friend last year who urged her to report the abuse to police. After he was arrested in December the defendant claimed that they only had a sexual relationship when she was older and with her consent.

Evil dad facing life for raping daughter

Miss Leigh said he sometimes used ordinary balloons as condoms but generally they had unprotected sex adding that he instigated oral sex underneath a towel while the family were on holiday.

She said when the victim was 10-years-old she was made to lie on the stairs while a dog performed an indecent act on her. She was also indecently touched when the defendant gave her piggy backs.

"As she got older the only way she could describe it was that it became a habit," said Miss Leigh. "Other children in the family moved out and she stayed with her father. Her mother also moved out.

"As she got older it became harder and more embarrassing to tell someone. She was required to get up in the night and go to his room and then back to her own room. When she tried to stop it he would make it extremely difficult for her if she didn't comply."

The prosecution said the defendant was happy when both children were born, telling her: "You can go on and have a football team as far as I'm concerned".

In her interview with police the victim said that when she did not want to have sex her father would get aggressive and say there would be consequences for the children.

When she finally moved out he bombarded her with text messages saying "I want the old sweet girl back" and threatening to tell the children who he really was. He finally told them last August.

Miss Leigh said that, as a child, the daughter was never allowed to stay at friends' homes overnight and her father always quizzed her about who she had seen and what she had said.

He told her that if she became pregnant by him she should claim she had been grabbed by someone and attacked.

She had a friendship with one young man but kept it secret from her father because she feared how he would react.

The court heard that when the victim was older the defendant would be "like a limpet" when they were out, never wanting to leave her alone.

Judge David Turner ordered the defendant to sign the sex offenders' register and made an order banning anything which might identify the two children.

Sentencing was postponed until next month.

Car and coach collide at busy road junction

TRAFFIC was brought to a standstill by a crash involving a coach and a car in Harlow on Friday afternoon.

The black Peugeot and SM Coaches bus collided at the junction of Southern Way and Paringdon Road at around 4pm.

Nobody was injured in the accident which was attended by police and paramedics. Three days later another SM Coaches bus was involved in an accident when it hit a tree.

The incident happened on the A414 near the Southern Way roundabout at about 3.30pm. Again, nobody was injured and the bus, which sustained damage to the front end, was towed away.

Harlow in the front line of Civil Defence

By LOUISE SASSOON

News Editor

sassooni@hertsessexnews.co.uk

NOWADAYS film from war zones around the world feature regularly on television news bulletins. But in Harlow in the 1950s the town had its own reasons for bringing the threat of conflict to the attention of residents as it played a major part in the country's Civil Defence programme.

A team of 36 trained people equipped with 25 steel helmets, four water pumps and four sandbags were Harlow's own version of the Home Guard. According to a report of the time, they would be prepared to cope with a nuclear bomb equivalent in destructive power to the bombs dropped on Germany during the Second World War.

Under the plan, Harlow was earmarked as a place of evacuation for Londoners in the event of enemy forces bombing and various buildings were singled out to be used to house the evacuees.

A bunker was also constructed in the Town Hall for local dignitaries to flee to if the town came under attack.

Regular correspondent Ron Bill said: "Under the London Civil Defence Plan, all schools in Harlow and the Leah Manning Centre were listed as rest/evacuation centres for people from London.

"What is now the M25 was to be an armed Army barrier at which nobody would be allowed in and only casualties allowed out.

"When the old Town Hall was demolished the civil defence bunker in the basement was lost, although the Government officially disbanded Civil Defence some years before."

A report handed to Harlow District Council in 1958 recommended the town should stay involved in the voluntary movement, but councillors raised concerns over a perceived lack of Government funding which they said made the defence ineffective.

They warned that if there was no improvement by 1959 they would support a movement to abandon civil defence in Harlow.

● Do you remember the town's Civil Defence or know when the plug was finally pulled on the scheme? Perhaps you or a relative were involved and want to share your memories with Nostalgia. If so write to us at 6 West Gate, Harlow, CM20 1JW or email sassooni@hertsessexnews.co.uk

Nostalgia update

THESE two photographs published in Nostalgia a few weeks ago have generated quite a response.

They were sent in by Graham Crampton and we said they were believed to show staff at Harlow electronics firm Cossor receiving long-service awards in 1977 and 1982.

However, Mr Crampton has since been back in touch to say one was actually of attendees at a joint management union seminar held at the Electrical Trades Union Centre in Esher, Surrey. Sorry for the confusion.

We have also heard

Thank you for your correspondence Mr Lewis. If any readers recognise themselves or a relative in the pictures or have a story you would like to share, then please contact us.

From the Star 25 years ago

Boom town

Business is booming in Harlow with the arrival of two major companies. Furniture giant Harris Queensway has invested £2m in its new superstore at Templefields and Schweppes has opened a service centre in River Way.

C&A coming?

The future of the old Co-op freezer store in the town centre is at the centre of increasing speculation over whether it will soon be home to fashion chain C&A after plans were submitted by the company to transform the site.

OAPs' plea

Nearly 70 elderly people living in Harlow have applied to Essex County Council for exemption from the weekly 75p increase in the home service charge.

Cash van raid

Thieves stole more than £8,000 from a Securicor van after threatening the driver with a knife as he returned to his home in Milwards for lunch.

Fresh milk from the dairy

THINK milk and those of you of a certain age will probably conjure up images of Humphrey, the 'character' created by advertising whizz kids to promote the white stuff on TV. The result of such advertising campaigns was a surge in demand which led to the supply of milk being produced on industrial scales.

But back in the 1950s Harlow had its own dairy - Mrs Wright's - which supplied the breakfast essential to kitchen tables in homes across the town. Correspondent Lydia Parker tell us it was situated opposite Brenthall Towers in Potter Street, just after a track leading to the infant school. But does anyone else have memories of the dairy?

Perhaps you were sent there as a child to buy milk or have other memories of it. If so, share them with our readers.

Fire crews move one step closer to taking action over service cuts

FIREFIGHTERS in Harlow could stop doing voluntary work and only respond to emergency calls after a county-wide ballot supported industrial action over planned service cuts.

More than 600 Essex County Fire and Rescue Service staff have voted for action short of a strike.

The Fire Brigades Union has accused service chiefs of targeting frontline crews rather than seeking efficiency savings elsewhere as the authority looks to tighten its purse strings during the recession.

The union claims the proposed cuts will mean vital appliances such as aerial ladder platforms and rescue tenders will be left understaffed, resulting in a compromised emergency service.

No decision will be made over what action will be taken until after a meeting with ECFRS officials later this month. But if the two sides fail to reach a compromise, crews could stop doing community visits, voluntary work and covering for other areas.

Keith Flynn, chairman of the Essex FBU, said: "If there is no significant progress we will have little choice other than to put industrial action in place after legal notice."

"No-one in Essex wants to take any form of industrial action and nothing is inevitable. There is a clear opportunity to reconsider these plans, adopt a joint approach and reach an agreement."

Assistant Chief Fire Officer Gordon Hunter, director of operations and resilience at ECFRS, said he was disappointed with the result of last week's ballot but reassured the public the service would continue to operate as normal.

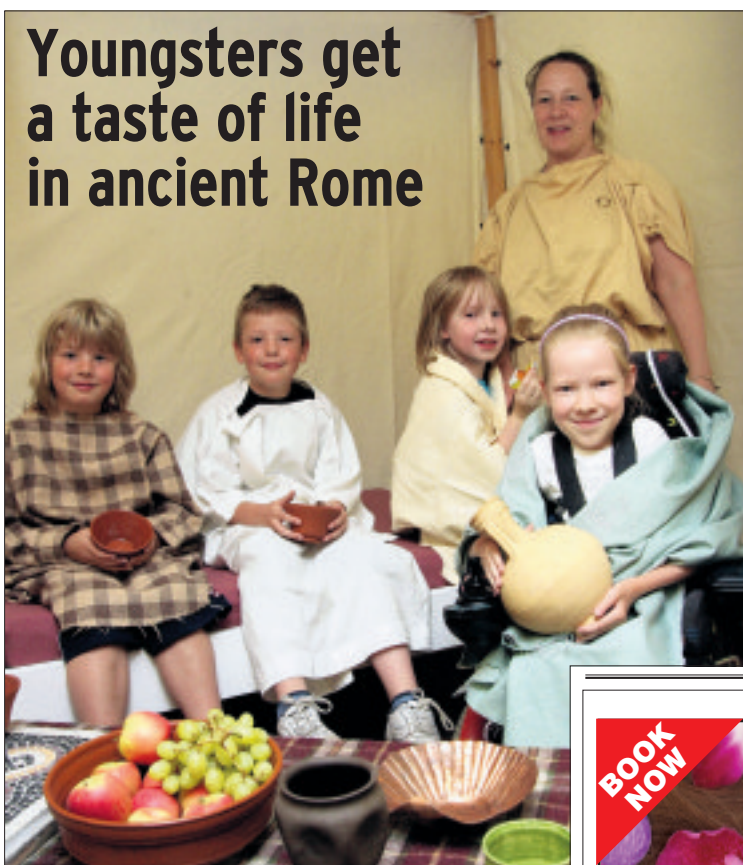

He added that the service had tried exhaustively to help the FBU and staff understand the severity of the financial situation faced by the public sector and said there is a need for change.

"The proposed changes for crewing of special appliances have been put forward following extensive consultation and carefully considered business planning and we must push ahead with these plans regardless of this result," he said.

"Based on the numbers of staff we employ, the number of those who have membership of the FBU and the turnout, the result shows that more than half of our staff support us and our plans."

Councillors' expenses cost taxpayers £200k

Youngsters get a taste of life in ancient Rome

IT was a case of "When in Rome, do as the Romans do," for visitors to the Museum of Harlow on Saturday.

More than 40 children and adults took a trip back in time to experience life in the Roman Empire.

They were given togas and sandals to wear while having their photos taken at a replica Roman feast.

The themed event followed on from one last week in which guests created their own Roman-style cooking bowls.

Tony Hall, chairman of Harlow Council's environment and community committee, said: "Harlow has a rich Roman history and local people enjoy finding out what it was like living as a Roman. These types of events are always popular."

Pictured with Cath Darby-Pragnell are Bailey (6), Connor (8), Ewan (7) and Ellie (9).

COUNCILLORS in Harlow have claimed nearly £200,000 in expenses and allowances in the last financial year, it has been revealed this week.

The figures published by Harlow Council detail money paid to elected members for the period from April 1 last year to March 31.

They cover basic allowances and special responsibilities allowances as well as expenses to meet the costs of travel, telephone calls and childcare.

Council leader Andrew Johnson tops the list after receiving £11,619.02 in payments. A breakdown of his claims show £248.34 for mobile phone calls, nearly £200 for landline calls and £965.55 in travel and subsidies for conferences on top of his allowances.

Deputy leader Simon Carter claimed £9,989.20 in allowances and expenses which included £149.85 for equipment and clothing, £126.88 for training expenses and £270.24 for travel costs.

Former councillor David Kirton, who was jailed earlier this year for sexually assaulting a 13-year-old girl, claimed just over £3,500.

Eleanor Macy, who last year topped the list with payments of more than £10,000 including almost £2,000 for childcare, is shown to have halved the amount she received this year and slashed her childcare costs to just over £300.

A council spokesman said: "Harlow Council's spend on allowances is much lower than most other Essex councils with Harlow having the second lowest in the county."

"Some councils also allow councillors to receive more than one Special Responsibility Allowance whereas in Harlow councillors may only receive one SRA payment even if they hold more than one position of responsibility."

He added: "Harlow councillors voted recently not to increase their allowances for 2008/9 and there are no on-going increases in allowances currently planned."

Town second in licence cheats league of shame

MORE than 400 people in Harlow have been watching television illegally, the second highest in Essex.

During the first six months of the year a total of 414 residents were caught without a valid licence.

Only Basildon, where 675 people were found to be breaking the law, has a worse figure in the county.

The figures were published this week by TV Licensing, which warned telly addicts that anyone caught flouting the rules will be prosecuted and could find themselves having to pay a hefty fine.

TV Licensing spokeswoman Joanna Pearce said: "These figures show our continued effectiveness in catching people who watch TV illegally and therefore penalise the honest majority who do pay."

"While evaders come from all income groups, we understand that in the current economic climate some people may find it difficult to pay their licence fee in one go. This is why we provide numerous ways to spread the cost including monthly direct debit and a weekly cash payment plan."

Anyone who watches or records television programmes as they are being shown on TV must have a licence and runs the risk of a criminal record and a fine of up to £1,000 if they are caught without one.

glass and commotion. I thought somebody was breaking into the back garden so I put my dressing gown on and went to have a look but my brother-in-law said one of the houses was on fire. I got the kids and my partner out and we went in the street and saw the fire.

"It was horrific, nobody could believe it. The flames were so hot and going about 30ft into the sky.

"We all went to the Latton Bush Centre and everybody who was there was just numb with shock. There was a lady there who was in one of the houses who had breathing difficulties after the fire and she was being treated by paramedics.

"It was just so surreal. It is going to take ages for things to get back to normal around here. The entire community is in a state of shock."

Scott Dee (18), who lives in one of the houses damaged in the blaze, said: "I heard people smashing windows with bricks and shouting 'fire'. I poked my head through my window and saw the huge flames and grabbed my brother and my dog and ran out the door."

Zulqar Cheema, chairman of the Berecroft Residents' Association, kept the estate's community centre open to offer residents a place to meet and get help.

"The effect of this will last as long as it takes to get people back into their homes," he said.

"People have lost a lot of things as well as their personal belongings like photographs and items which cannot be replaced."

Yuen Chow (29), of Berecroft, appeared before magistrates in Chelmsford on Saturday charged with arson recklessly endangering life, violent behaviour at Harlow police station and two counts of criminal damage. He was remanded in custody to appear at Chelmsford Crown Court on Monday.

The house had been reduced to a shell, it was heartbreaking

AS I drove around the corner an awful acrid stench filled my nostrils and I dreaded seeing the damage the fire had caused.

After pushing my way through the crowds of dejected residents to the scene of devastation, I had to step back in shock. The house in front of me was nothing like I had ever seen before. It had been reduced to a mere shell.

By SOPHIE WARNER

reporting from the scene the morning after

As I stretched to peer inside the door it was heartbreaking to see the blackened walls. It was hard to imagine any sign of life taking place there.

When I wandered round I came across various pieces of burned debris that reminded me of the images you only normally associate with something on television.

As the smoke still smouldered from the roof, it dawned on me that people's treasured possessions had been destroyed. It was heartbreaking. My disbelief was reflected in the faces of residents.

The surrounding houses were also a sorry sight. Windows had been smashed and the smoke damage was obvious to see through the open doors.

But I did come away with one positive. In the hour of greatest need you are able to count on your neighbours. It was refreshing to see the community pulling together, eager to help each other.

It restored my faith in the goodness of people.

Blaze brings out community spirit

By LOUISE SASSOON, News Editor

sassooni@hertsessexnews.co.uk

COMMUNITY leaders have praised Berecroft residents for their spirit and determination to help each other in the aftermath of the fire.

A number of householders were offering tea, coffees and toilet facilities to neighbours affected by the blaze as they rallied around to offer support.

Representatives of South Anglia Housing Association, which owns some of the homes, visited the estate on Friday morning to deliver emergency packs which contained items to help displaced tenants.

Local councillors were also on hand to offer help and support as well as ensure the authority's emergency plan, which seeks to help residents during major incidents, was working smoothly.

But it was the community

WRECKED: Firefighters check one of the damaged properties the morning after the fire spirit in the face of adversity which won most praise.

Ward councillor Lee Dangerfield said: "The thing I will say is that the whole community has really pulled together and everybody has helped everybody else supplying teas, coffees and toilet facilities.

"It shows how something as devastating as this can bring a community together and it has made me very proud of the Berecroft people."

Fellow councillor Sarah Dangerfield added: "Everybody has really pulled together which is amazing given the circumstances."

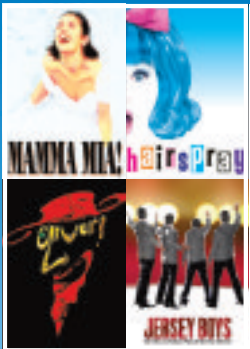

More than 100 residents attended a meeting on Monday which was called to address their concerns following the fire.

Harlow MP Bill Rammell and Mr Dangerfield were joined by representatives of the police, South Anglia Housing Association and Harlow Council to answer questions and offer reassurance.

Residents were told a report on the fire would be circulated to all those affected by the blaze.

It was also agreed that firefighters would visit a handful of residents who voiced concern that smoke detectors may not have been placed in the correct positions in their homes.

Councillor's 'absence' ignites war of words

A POLITICAL row has broken out after a ward councillor, who lives more than 50 miles away in Cambridgeshire, was accused of failing to support residents affected by the Berecroft blaze.

Liberal Democrat Lorna Spenceley was criticised by Staple Tye Conservative councillor Lee Dangerfield who claimed she had published a comment on her Twitter page the day after the fire stating she had bought a piano but made no mention of the inferno.

However, Mrs Spenceley told the Star she had updated her thread on the social networking site at 2.45pm on Thursday - nine hours BEFORE the fire started.

Mrs Spenceley said she was shocked by the criticism and accused Mr Dangerfield of playing party politics. She said she had been kept up-to-date by colleagues at the scene and had spoken to council officers to ensure everything possible was being done for residents.

But Mr Dangerfield has questioned Mrs Spenceley's decision to move to Ely which, he said, would affect her ability to help constituents.

"I appreciate the rules allow her to leave the area whilst still claiming her councillor's allowance and she may feel that she is able to deal with her case work via the trusty Blackberry, but how does she deal with face-to-face contact so necessary in situations like this fire at just a moment's notice?" he wrote in a letter to the Star (see opposite page).

"I very much hope Staple Tye residents will make it clear to councillor Spenceley, as well as her party leader on Harlow Council and her eight other party colleagues, that it is not acceptable for her to remain as a councillor now that she lives 60 miles away."

Mrs Spenceley hit back, saying: "Councillor Dangerfield believes I should not complete my term of office as a councillor which comes to an end next May. However, he failed to voice similar objections when Conservative councillor Samantha Warren moved to the Isle of Man."

"I'm not overseas. I intend to continue to do my very best as councillor for Staple Tye and for the residents who elected me."

She also said she would not be claiming transport costs to travel to and from Ely.

Harlow's Emergency Plan

WHAT IS IT? Under the Civil Contingencies Act 2004, all Category 1 Responders must prepare plans to deal with a major incident after assessing the risks within an area. The Emergency Plan identifies roles and responsibilities of partner agencies and procedures that need to be addressed by Harlow Council during incidents such as flooding, fire etc. The plan is also a part of a partnership with Essex County Council, whose Emergency Planning Duty Officer co-ordinated the supply of transport for the Berecroft residents and alerted the county's welfare network.

WHAT DOES IT DO? Using the example of Berecroft, it was recognised that residents would need to be given temporary shelter until the situation was resolved. A rest centre was activated in the early hours using previously identified and trained council volunteers and outside voluntary agencies.

WHEN DOES IT COMES INTO FORCE? The plan will come into operation when a major emergency has happened with or without advance warning, causing death or injury, damage to property or the environment or disruption to the community which, because of the scale of its effects, cannot be dealt with by the emergency services and local authorities as part of their day-to-day responsibilities.

Greedy Tories just as guilty

SIR, I would like to comment on the continued assault by some individuals on the expenses claimed by Harlow MP Bill Rammell.

They are trying to lead the Harlow electorate into believing that the Tories are goody-goodies, but nothing could be further from the truth.

To date 86 Tory MPs have paid back a staggering £260,000 plus and there will be more. Out of 196 Tory MPs in Parliament, 86 have paid money back and a further 40 are either paying money back or have stated that they are no longer going to claim the second home allowance. The rest must be undecided.

Now HM Revenue has taken an interest in this scandal and is inviting MPs to discuss their tax affairs. I wonder what revelations will come out of that?

So the Conservatives have got their snouts well and truly in the trough and not only their snouts but their front and rear trotters as well.

Mr Rammell's claims are insignificant compared to the Tories. Wake up Harlow, you have been conned locally. Make sure you are not conned nationally.

Stop wasting our money

SIR, According to last week's Star, Harlow's Conservative-run council has written off debts of over £250,000 that, through its incompetence, is unable to collect. This is on top of £30,000 spent on preparing for car park charges in Bush Fair, The Stow, Old Harlow and even the Town Park that nobody wants.

And on top of more than £300,000 spent closing down the a major part of the service from the Advice Centre, again which few of us wanted

And on top of over £600,000 to provide wheelie bins and replace a perfectly good recycling scheme with another which very few of us living in terraced houses want.

And on top of over £750,000 the council spends on consultants that, according to the Tory councillor in charge of finance not even he wants.

Is this the same Conservative council that was bleating last year that it had no money?

I am sure a lot of us could suggest better ways of spending £2m. If the council got on with the things that we do want, it might even save more of our money instead of wasting it.

Michael Danvers
Tunmmeade, Harlow

Absence is unacceptable

SIR, As a Harlow councillor for the Staple Tye ward, the importance of being immediately accessible to local residents was sharply brought home to me by the fire in Berecroft last week.

I was hoping to work with Staple Tye's Liberal Democrat councillors in dealing with the many problems the fire had caused, but was surprised to learn that one of them had upped sticks and relocated to Ely in Cambridgeshire without even a 'by your leave' to the local residents who elected her.

Paying lip service to our desire to recycle

SIR, There has been a lot of correspondence about the revised waste collections and the imminent arrival of the hated wheelie bins, the need for which our elected councillors have blamed on the Government's requirement to increase the amount of waste recycled.

I believe we all want to have our waste recycled and there should be very little that now needs to go to landfill, that is if those with the power to ensure that packaging is minimised and where used is made from recyclable materials take the necessary action.

At a local level, Tesco at Church Langley used to sell loose tomatoes but now they are all packaged. The M&S food section now charges for bags to take home their produce. These bags are apparently recyclable but many of the purchases put in them are encased in non-recyclable plastics.

Why has the use of non-recyclable packaging not been outlawed by the Government? It has had long enough to do it. And what is our council doing, either on its own or jointly with other local authorities about lobbying Government, the supermarkets and retailers about this?

Why is there no nationally co-ordinated recycling system? For example, other councils collect green garden waste but ours does not. Others collect waxed drink cartons which, it appears from the Harlow Council page advertisement last week, we do not.

Yet who gets the blame for not recycling properly or putting the wrong type of plastic in the blue box? It's us, good old 'Joe Public'.

Those with the power to affect real change seem merely to pay lip service to their green god. Perhaps they think that changing the type of container into which we put the waste is all they need to do.

P.J. Powell
Spring Close, Harlow

SIR, So several county councillors seek to dispel the "scaremongering" with regard to the reduction in waste collections (Letters, July 30). In order to do so, they state that food waste will still be collected from homes each week.

I'm not sure about you folks but at present all but waste for recycling is collected once week. I make that a reduction.

Declaring that "there are no plans to put a stop to weekly waste collections in Harlow" is treating the public like idiots. A weekly collection of used matches would justify this statement.

Most people are happy to do their bit for recycling but if products that we need come packaged in materials that must go to landfill, taxing us to dispose of them and forcing us to store them for a fortnight is hardly going to help.

I regularly run out of room to store my recyclable waste. I'd take it to the tip when passing if it wasn't for the fact that stuff collected from my house in one container has to be sorted into several bins when I get there. Why?

Kevin Wright
Priory Court, Harlow

believe, now unable to give the residents of Staple Tye the support and advice they need. I appreciate that the rules allow her to leave the area whilst still claiming her councillor's allowance, and she may feel that she is able to deal with her case work via the trusty BlackBerry, but how does she deal with face-to-face contact so necessary in situations like this fire at just a moment's notice?

On the day after the fire she was publishing a comment on her Twitter page on how she had purchased a new piano, but there was nothing regarding what she might have done to help residents in serious need.

A year ago a Liberal Democrat councillor in Kentish Town tried a similar stunt when he moved to Arizona but continued to claim he could represent his constituents from there. He also continued to claim his councillor's allowances but was forced to resign by pressure from residents.

I very much hope Staple Tye residents will make it clear to Councillor Spenceley as well as her party leader on Harlow Council, and her eight other party colleagues that it is not acceptable for her to remain as a councillor now that she lives 60 miles away.

So much for infrastructure

SIR, The Government has just announced that it is switching capital funding from the regional growth areas such as Harlow to fund its housing pledge in other locations.

Once again the promise of infrastructure before housing rings hollow.

The chairman of the regional assembly has warned that the Government is in danger of promoting housing growth without adequate transport links, employment opportunities and social infrastructure.

When will the politicians in Harlow wake up and realise that the hundreds of millions of pounds needed to support the thousands of homes the Government has imposed on Harlow and surrounding districts does not exist? This Government has run out of our money.

New system speeds up hospice referrals

A NEW referral system to give patients quicker and easier access to hospice services was launched this week.

The system has been designed by St Clare Hospice to simplify the way in which initial referrals are made and then in the way they are processed.

It is making a new-look referral form available on its website so that it can be downloaded and completed by patients' hospital or community-based professionals.

"The new system includes clearer pathways and improved understanding for our colleagues in the community," said director of patient care Tanya Curry.

"For patients with life-limiting illnesses, it is so important that the system in place for admissions into the hospice is as quick and streamlined as possible. We also recognise the time pressures on our colleagues, and want to do what we can to ensure we all provide the best service for our patients."

Hospice communications manager Giles Wright said it was important for staff to work as a complete team with colleagues at Princess Alexandra and those working within the community.

"We recognise patients' individual needs and are adapting the way we work to provide specialist care," he said. "The use of online technology is one way in which we can make simple things such as referral forms and literature available but we hope to enable a complete online referral system within the coming year."

Last year the hospice supported nearly 700 patients but with the improved referral system it is anticipating that even more people will be able to benefit from its services.

However, while the improvements to the existing system will benefit patients, they are expected to add to the workload of patient care administrators and team leaders.

"The flip side to the projected increase in referrals is the urgent need for more staff to cope with the demand," said Tanya. "We are currently looking to recruit registered nurses, occupational and physiotherapy staff to enable our clinical developments to continue."

During the past 12 months the hospice has forged much stronger partnerships and been the centre of innovation for specialist palliative care. In December it launched a new day therapy service and two months ago started up a carers' group.

"These are things we are extremely proud of and feel we are making a difference to the community we serve," said Tanya.

● THE new referral form can be found online at www.stclarehospice.org.uk in the 'working with others' section'. A recruitment fair takes place at the hospice on Saturday (August 8) from 10am-2pm, and recruitment information can also be found on the hospice website.

Paddling pools open with a council plea to report vandals

VANDALS are being warned they face tough action if they are found wrecking any of Harlow's paddling pools over the summer holidays.

Council chiefs issued the alert after five of the six attractions opened for the six-week break.

Each year the pools attract hundreds of visitors who flock to enjoy the water and the surrounding parks and play areas.

But the council has said most years there are problems with vandalism and people throwing glass and bottles into the water.

Tony Hall, chairman of the council's environment and community committee, said: "Pupils at the William Martin School recently held their first KIDS Neighbourhood Action Panel with a local police officer and two of the main issues they wanted to talk about were the broken glass and dog mess at the paddling pools."

"The council and police do their best but the vandals will wait until there's no-one there. It only takes them seconds to throw a bottle into a pool."

He added: "If anyone sees people vandalising or throwing objects into a pool I ask them to please help prevent a child being injured by reporting this to us and giving us a chance to catch those responsible."

Last year mother Tracy Newell contacted the Star after her 10-year-old son, Ben, was told he may suffer permanent nerve damage after treading on glass in Staple Tye pool.

The council said that although the pools at Bush Fair, Old Harlow, Potter Street, Staple Tye, Summers, and Harlow Town Park, are regularly patrolled by police community safety officers and the council's own safety enforcement officers and community rangers, it still needed parents and residents to report any acts of vandalism.

This can be done by contacting the police on the non-emergency number 0300 333 4444, the council's anti-social behaviour hotline on 0845 605 2222 or Contact Harlow on (01279) 446655.

Animated films turn spotlight on surgery

MEDICS at Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital have created a series of animated films to give their patients an insight into what happens during and immediately after surgery.

Two of the five three-minute films, which have been funded in partnership with The Rivers Hospital in Sawbridgeworth, explain hip and knee replacement operations. The other three, paid for solely by PAH, are about general surgical procedures.

All five productions have been developed by a company in India but commissioned in partnership with NHS Innovations, an organisation that supports and funds new ideas.

Darren Leech, executive director of delivery at the PAH NHS Trust, said: "The films give an entertaining insight for patients about what happens in the operating theatre and then how they can cope with the intense rehabilitation and recovery afterwards.

"Research shows that patients who receive high quality pre-operative information have reduced anxiety and, therefore, make a swifter recovery. These animations illustrate to patients what the implications of their surgery may be so they come in prepared for the aftermath.

"We hope by informing patients in this way will lead to an earlier discharge from hospital."

Dr Sandra Dimmock, the trust's medical director, added: "It's great that our clinicians are taking a lead in new innovations which give patients a better insight into their treatment.

"Patients can be confident they will not feel rushed or ill-informed when coming in for surgery. The initial feedback has been very positive and we are looking to expand the film library to other operations and treatments."

Newhall development picks up two more design awards

HOUSING chiefs are celebrating after a Harlow housing development scooped two top design awards.

The Newhall development walked away with the Prestigious Project Winner award in two different categories at the Housing Design Awards ceremony held in London.

Michael Garnett, chairman of Harlow Council's planning committee, said: "The comments of the judges reflect what the council and our partners are trying to achieve with this new development – sustainable and beautifully designed homes that meet the needs of local residents and attract new people to the town.

"There was some strong competition from across the country and to scoop two awards demonstrates how well designed and carefully planned the Newhall development has been."

THE war in Afghanistan is being fought on the other side of the world but it is never far from the headlines. In his position as Minister of State for the Armed Forces, Harlow MP Bill Rammell has met British troops on the front line and this week gives Star readers an insight into the conflict with thoughts he penned while on a visit to the war-torn country.

Sunday, July 26

I arrive at RAF Brise Norton and I'm as nervous as I have been for every one of my previous three trips. Soldiers tell you if you're not nervous before you go to Afghanistan you've lost the plot.

A seven-hour flight to Kandahar aboard an RAF TriStar follows. When we touch down the temperature even at 10pm is hot and oppressive.

Monday, July 27

I am up early after only three hours sleep and have breakfast with the troops. Despite what's reported in the media, their morale is high. Our troops know they're working to make us safer by denying a safe haven for the Taliban.

I spend the day in briefings and meetings and view the new vehicles which are better supporting our forces. I'm even persuaded to drive a Mastiff [a heavily armoured, 6 x 6 wheel-drive patrol vehicle which carries up to eight people] and I'm absolutely terrified I'll crash it!

In the evening I have dinner with Brigadier Tim Radford who has been leading our forces in Helmand. He really believes we're making progress but thinks the Afghans should commit more troops in Helmand. That's what we're trying to persuade them to do.

Late evening I fly to Camp Bastion and attend the 'ramp ceremony' where the coffins carrying four soldiers who've been killed are taken onto the aircraft for repatriation. I feel desolate at the loss of these young men. We're enormously indebted to their bravery and sacrifice.

I feel desolate at the loss of these young men. We are enormously indebted to their bravery and sacrifice

By BILL RAMMELL

Harlow MP and Minister of State for Armed Forces

Tuesday, July 28

I have an early morning transfer by helicopter to Lashkar Gah [the capital of Helmand province] and have numerous meetings followed by a meeting with Governor Mangel, the Afghan leader of Helmand province. I find him really impressive and feel we need more like him.

I then fly to Musa Qalah [widely considered as the largest Taliban stronghold left in Afghanistan]. This really is the front line with the Taliban just a few kilometres away. At 4pm it's 51 degrees centigrade and I'm flagging. How our forces cope in body armour and the heat I don't know. They have my utmost admiration.

TONIC FOR THE TROOPS: Armed Forces Minister Bill Rammell meets some of the British soldiers serving in Helmand province during his visit to Afghanistan (s)

In the evening I have meetings with local Afghan army and police chiefs.

Wednesday, July 29

First thing in the morning I visit the local bazaar. Security is intense but I wanted to meet some ordinary Afghans. Their concern is security and fear of the Taliban and they tell me they are grateful for our support.

I fly back to Bastion and spend the day talking to troops and going into meetings and then visit the hospital where the quality of care for our wounded is superb.

I then tour the training centre for our counter Improvised Explosive Device force. The IEDs are the major driver of British casualties. We detect 85 per cent but the Taliban are laying so many it's a huge challenge.

Late evening I take four flights to get to Muscat from where I'm flying home tomorrow.

Back home

I'm exhausted, relieved and enormously impressed by our troops. Their professionalism, bravery and commitment working seven days a week for six months is incredible.

I'm also convinced we're right to be in Afghanistan. If the Taliban retook control the terrorist threat here would be greater, but we don't want to stay indefinitely.

That's why we're working so hard to develop the Afghan army and police so they can secure Afghanistan and make us safer, too.

Donor's reward for gifts of life

DEDICATED blood donor David Evans has been rewarded for making more than 75 donations. Mr Evans, of Upper Swaines, Epping, was presented with a crystal plate by the National Blood Service.

Only three per cent of donors reach their 75th donation, while less than one per cent make it to 100.

NBS spokesperson Zeeshan Asghar said: "We are proud to reward these silent heroes who have rolled up their sleeves so many times over the years to help save lives.

"Only four per cent of the eligible population donate blood, so the majority of people are indebted to these individuals who selflessly give their time for the benefit of others."

Peak performers

MORE than £10,000 was raised for St Clare hospice when a team of daring fundraisers scaled Britain's three highest peaks.

The team of 18 hospice supporters successfully climbed Ben Nevis in Scotland, Scafell Pike in the Lake District and Mount Snowdon in Wales in a 24-hour period.

A hospice spokesman said: "Although extremely tired at the end of the weekend, everyone had a fantastic time and thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

"We are very proud of them for what they accomplished as it was such a tough challenge. There was rain and snow on Ben Nevis, complete darkness on Scafell Pike as they were doing the descent over midnight and an early morning start at Snowdon after only a snatching a few hours sleep on the minibus!"

Battie in town

CLEAR out the attics, unpack the porcelain and give those treasured antiques a good dusting down.

The evening starts at 7pm at Darlington's car showroom in River Way. Tickets costing £5 can be reserved by contacting Sarah Brown on (01279) 773 650 or sending an e-mail to sales@ejdarlington.co.uk

Cricket fun day

CRICKETERS were bowled over when a match to raise cash for their local club made more than £500.

The competition was won by The Pipsqueaks who beat The Stone Cutters in the final.

Jennifer gets in training to pedal to Paris

MORTGAGE broker Jennifer Knight is preparing to spend four days in the saddle when she takes part in a gruelling 300-mile ride for charity.

Miss Knight (26) has signed up for the London to Paris challenge, cycling 90 miles a day to raise money for research into spinal muscular atrophy. She has set herself a target of £1,250.

She chose the charity after a friend's baby daughter died from the condition last year.

The bike ride will start on September

2 at Blackheath in south London and end at the Eiffel Tower.

Miss Knight, of Summers, Harlow, has already met some of the people she will cycling alongside and has been preparing for the challenge by pedalling her way into work as well as taking part in the London to Cambridge bike ride a few weeks ago.

"There are people taking part who have not ridden a bike for 20-25 years so I thought I should be able to do it," she said. "It has made the whole thing a lot easier.

"I wanted to do something different for charity. I booked it not considering I have not been on a bike in 15 years and I then thought: 'Why I am doing this?'"

She added: "I am looking forward to it but I will probably get home and never want to ride a bike again"

Miss Knight said the money she raises will go to Annabel's Angel Fund which was set up by her friend following the death of her daughter.

Anyone wanting to sponsor Miss Knight can do so by logging on to her website at www.justgiving.com/jenniferknight3.

Hospice the winner in charity football match

A CHARITY football match netted more than £4,000 for St Clare Hospice when Harlow policemen took on a team of referees.

More than 300 people watched as the 'boys in blue' beat the 'men in black' 7-6 at Harlow Town FC's Barrows Farm stadium on Sunday.

As well as the football, visitors had the chance to enjoy a barbeque, activities and chat with special guest celebrity Vicky Michelle, the actress who played waitress Yvette Carte-Blanche in the television comedy series Allo, Allo.

Organiser Terry Rackley said: "It was a fantastic day and thoroughly enjoyed by all the mums, dads and children.

"At the end of the day both teams stood in front of the crowd and applauded them for their support and donations.

"Hopefully next year we will have more time to make the event bigger and better. May I offer my sincere thanks to all who attended or got involved. It made this day a great day for the referees, the police and, of course, St Clare Hospice."

Celebration in mosaic

WILLIAM MARTIN JUNIOR: The school's 50th birthday was celebrated in style when a mosaic was unveiled in the hall.

The artwork took six months to create and incorporated designs created by the pupils themselves.

Headteacher Peter Wilton said: "This really was an effort which involved the whole school. The pupils created designs and a number were chosen to be incorporated into the final piece.

"All the children and staff helped put the tiles in place."

He added: "The whole thing was co-ordinated by Debbie Richardson who has spent hours and hours working with children and adults to create the mosaic. She has done really well."

Nurseries' farewell fun days

CHILDREN at the PLAY AND LEARN PRE-SCHOOL, in London Road, Harlow, and KIDDI CARU NURSERY, in Kiln Lane, Harlow, were given a send off to remember when they took part in graduation ceremonies to mark their move up to primary school.

Magical end to school year

ABBOTSWELD: Children showed they had heart, brains and courage when they took to the stage to perform the Wizard of Oz.

Year 6 pupils acted the roles of Dorothy and friends at the end-of-year performance and were supported by Year 5 children who sang in the Munchkin choir.

A school spokeswoman said: "They all had a fantastic time. It was brilliant."

Labrador Bos is a golden retriever!

A FAMILY'S pet dog has been hailed a hero and given a gold medal for bravery after saving the life of his owner's father.

Labrador Bosnich – also called Bos – stayed by the side of pensioner Mark Corrie after he went missing on the Cumbrian Fells for two days.

Mr Corrie (76) had been out for a walk with Bos when the weather turned bad and Mr Corrie became confused. As he was trying to find his way back home, he fell down a deep gully and couldn't get out.

But Bos stayed with him as he lay unable to move and started barking to attract attention. Eventually, two couples who were out walking heard Bos and followed his howls. They found Mr Corrie who, despite being cold and suffering from dehydration, was still alive.

Mr Corrie was airlifted to hospital where he made a full recovery.

Mr Corrie's daughter Lorna said: "We're all proud of Bos. He is a loyal dog and he did a good job. If it was not for him dad would still be there; he would never have been found. "He has been the best dog we've had."

Now a charity called the People's Dispensary for Sick Animals (PDSA) has awarded Bos a gold medal in recognition of his life-saving actions. Mike Graham, of the Penrith Mountain Rescue Team, said that if it hadn't been for Bos's persistent howling, Mr Corrie may not have been discovered in time to save his life.

"Bos was a hero that day and his family should be very proud," he said. "I'm sure his actions saved Mr Corrie's life."

GLAMOROUS

110 YEARS OF GREAT FURNITURE 1899-2009

We all need a little glamour in our lives from time to time and one of this summer's key looks is just that – go anywhere glamour.

At Fishpools we know that modern glamour and luxury is not about money it's about confidence and the key to success is choosing one statement piece or accessory to give a room a real 'wow' factor.

Take the sumptuous Regent sofa in regal purple and gold with matching scatter cushions which will command attention as soon as you enter the room. Or the unique Cinema chaise – bold and inviting and a definite talking point.

Glamour works well in the bedroom too. The decadent French-style Alexandria bed is sure to make the boudoir your favourite room in your home.

Don't worry if this all seems a little overwhelming. This look is great for those of you who love grand furniture but can still work on a very simple level too.

The Rochefort console table is a perfect example of simple, understated glamour which doesn't scream for attention but which will still draw admiring glances.

Add in a little creative thinking, don't make everything uniform, and you'll end up with a truly amazing space. And if you're looking for some inspiration or help visit our store and speak to one of our advisors who will be happy to help. Alternatively browse through our collections at www.fishpools.co.uk.

Millions slashed from regen grant

By LOUISE SASSOON, News Editor
sassoon@hertsessexnews.co.ukREGENERATION projects in Harlow could be under threat after the Government slashed £3m from an improvement grant.

Whitehall had promised to pump £21.5m into the London-Harlow-Stansted Growth Partnership to fund housing and infrastructure projects across the areas until 2011.

But this week Housing Minister John Healey announced the allocation would be hacked back to £18.5m.

The news has been greeted with dismay from council chiefs who are working on plans to improve the town.

Harlow Council leader Andrew Johnson said: "This reduction is deeply disappointing. Regeneration, housing and infrastructure works are vitally important for the town and we will be faced with some very tough choices."

"Of course we will work with our partners to ensure the impact of the cuts is minimised, but inevitably some important projects will be affected."

The London-Harlow-Stansted Growth Partnership is led by Harlow Council and includes Uttlesford, East Herts, Broxbourne and Epping Forest councils as well as Essex and Hertfordshire county councils, green groups and the private sector.

Harlow's political leaders have been working on a cross-party basis for five years to meet the regeneration needs of the town and generate Government and private sector funding.

Schemes which could be affected by the funding cut include new housing, improving Harlow's electricity network, tackling traffic congestion and improving green spaces.

However, the cuts will not interfere with plans to widen a stretch of the A414 from the M11 roundabout into town as money for that project has already been secured through a different fund.

Harlow MP Bill Rammell said he was extremely concerned to hear about the reduction which he said was made to fund the Government's additional £1.5bn investment in affordable housing.

"When the cuts came to light I immediately discussed the implications of this with both the council and other partners and I have demanded assurances from the council that vital regeneration projects in Harlow remain on track," he said.

"Cuts have affected growth areas across the country, not just in Harlow, but I am committed to ensuring Harlow remains a Government priority."

Children get stuck in to a packed programme of Playday activities

PLAYTIME: Top, Emma (5) and Harry (2) Stewart enjoy pond dipping (photo: HAR0582531). Above, Alisha Frankham (6) and Anya Patel (3) (photo: HAR0582530)YOUNGSTERS had bundles of fun and got their hands sticky when they took part in a nationwide playday yesterday (Wednesday). The event, held at Harlow's Parndon Wood Nature Reserve, included a puppet show, face painting and a bouncy castle.

There was also a chance for children to roll up their sleeves and get stuck in to some art and crafts activities as well as a den-building exercise.

The activities were organised by Harlow Council to coincide with the National Playday project which held across the country.

Let's go do, keep doing and do some more!

EVERYONE wants to be good and do their bit, but where do we start and how do we find the time?

The last year has seen a boom in the amount of people looking to volunteer. YouthNet, home of the UK's volunteering website do-it.org.uk, recorded a massive rise of 115 per cent in the number of people applying to volunteer in 2008 compared to 2007.

Some volunteers are choosing to devote their time to good causes in order to help their quest for employment during the recession, while others are simply looking to give something back to the community and learn new skills.

Whatever the reasons, volunteering is very much of the moment and a 'win win' for all involved.

Volunteering has long been a key part of large companies' commitment to social responsibility. More creative, innovative, engaging and, most importantly, more fulfilling for employees than simply donating financially; the benefits are huge for all concerned.

One such company is Honda. As part of its long-established commitment to being a 'company society wants to exist'; its philosophy revolves around doing (often small) things which make a big difference.

Whether it's creating a zero emission car, a motorcycle with an airbag or a generator to power an Antarctic expedition, the company is a team of 'doers'.

Recently 60 Honda (UK) staff took a day out to help with three projects close to its headquarters near Slough in Berkshire. Over the day, the team rejuvenated a nursery for people with learning disabilities and an allotment for people without gardens, as well as cleaning the depths and surroundings of the Slough Canal Basin, filling 40 refuse sacks and unearthing a mattress and plastic baby doll amongst other things!

Felicity McClintock, volunteer co-ordinator for British Waterways London, which looks after the canal, appreciated the effort: "British Waterways is thrilled by the hard work and enthusiasm of Honda's staff involved in the recent clean-up event.

"We really appreciate the support of volunteers who give up their time to help us keep the waterways clean and tidy for all to enjoy. Every year we spend £100 million maintaining the UK's canals and rivers, removing everything from aluminium cans to shopping trolleys from the water and towpaths."

Emma Knight, who works for Honda (UK) and volunteered at Cherry Orchard Allotments, said: "The team spirit was amazing. Everyone got stuck in, had a great laugh and thoroughly enjoyed giving something back to the local community. We all left with a great buzz and are still talking about it in the corridors. We can't wait for the next time."

Just a week later, a six-strong team from Honda's PR department successfully braved the Three Peaks Challenge, climbing more than 11,000 feet in 26.5 hours to raise more than £3,100 for Child Bereavement Charity, BEN.

That's just 66 staff, in one company, taking a day out each in just a two-week period. Little things adding up to big things, remember?

So how do you become a doer? A good place to start is your local Volunteer Centre <http://www.do-it.org.uk/wanttovolunteer/aboutvolunteering/vcfinder> where you can find out about opportunities in your area.

Another route is the website, do-it.org.uk, where you can search a UK wide database of volunteering opportunities. do-it.org.uk receives more than 35,000 applications each month from volunteers looking to be matched with one of its one million plus opportunities to volunteer.

Extending out its 'Doer' attitude nationwide, Honda UK has recently teamed up with do-it.org.uk as part of its launch campaign for the Honda Insight hybrid car - carrying the strapline 'Everybody wants to be good'.

The company has put a special volunteering search tool on its website - Honda.co.uk - which matches volunteers to environmental projects looking for support.

Honda is also asking each of its dealers to nominate a local or national environmental charity - to which it will donate $5 for every Insight test drive taken.

As Ian Armstrong, marketing manager for Honda UK puts it: "This is an extremely positive and optimistic initiative, helping the wider community ... real action and real results."

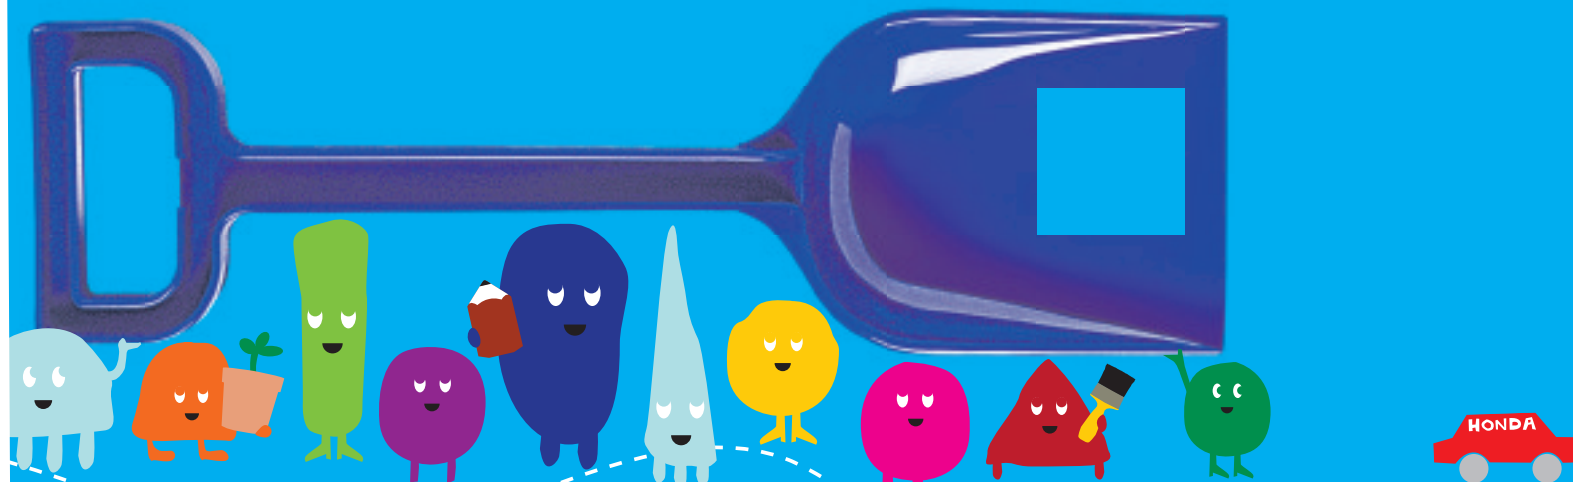

So visit the website in the advertisement below and in the words of Honda's recent 'doer' advertisement... "Let's go do, keep doing and do some more. Start a to-do list. Because there's a million and one 'do's' still to be done."

On the hunt for doers

We believe in doing, not just talking about doing.
So we got stuck in and started doing things in our local community.
But we need more doers.
If everyone started doing, think how much we could get done.

Artist's work is carved with pride

THE Gibberd Gallery continues its summer tradition of profiling the work of artists represented in Harlow's sculpture collection with an exhibition of wood carvings by sculptor Robert Koenig.

Culture Of Wood: Robert Koenig Retrospective, which opened at the Civic Centre on Saturday, features a stunning collection of relief panels, carved wood figures and drawings.

The Manchester-born artist has enjoyed a longstanding relationship with Harlow since Lady Gibberd purchased the first of a series of carvings from him at a London show in 1983. He returned to the town last week to unveil his new exhibition.

"Lady Gibberd was the first to appreciate and acquire an early example of the large wood relief panels, which developed into a series over the following 15 years," he said. "It gives me great pleasure to be able to return to Harlow to show work that spans the early 1980s through to the present day."

Jenny Lushington from The Friends of Harlow Sculpture Collection added: "We are delighted to be working with the Gibberd Gallery and Robert Koenig to host this stunning sculpture exhibition.

"The colour that he uses on the wood adds so much to the visual impact and interest of the work. This really is an exhibition not to be missed."

The exhibition runs at The Gibberd Gallery in the Civic Centre until September 26. Admission is free.

WANT to do something for a good cause but can't face the thought of a lung-busting charity jog or shaving off your treasured locks?

If you suffer those pangs of guilt every time you read about someone else's charitable exploits in the Star's Community Corner page, a rock 'n' roll fundraiser on Sunday is the ideal place to ease your conscience while enjoying some of the best live music Harlow has to offer.

Featuring 11 of the town's most exciting young groups, Bands Against Knife Crime will take place at The Link club in Parsloe Road. It is dedicated to the memory of Harlow teenager Tommy Jones, who was stabbed to death outside an east London pub in 2007.

Beginning at midday, the gig will feature the punchy punk-pop poetics of Loser Token and Members Of Me, the devil-baiting blues of Star Sound Check favourites The Stolen Coda and the righteous rage-rock of Altitude Zero among others. Virtuosoic whirlwind blues trio JB3 will headline.

Money raised by the all-ticket event will go towards promoting awareness of knife crime and help pay for a memorial for Tommy.

Co-organiser Jade Smith said she was looking forward to the fundraiser, which almost had to be cancelled at the last minute after the organisers were told they did not have the correct licence to stage a public event at The Link clubhouse.

"We had originally planned to hold a three-day event beginning on Friday afternoon but we've had to rearrange the whole gig to take place on the Sunday because of the licensing issues," she said.

"But the bands – all of whom are playing for free – have been fantastic with us despite the change of plans and we've only had a couple who've been forced to drop out.

"We're all hoping that the fundraiser will be a great success and pave the way for similar events to be held in the town in the near future."

Tickets cost £5 and are available from The Shark pub in Hobtoe Road.

GI JOE: THE RISE OF COBRA certificate 12A 1h57m

BASED on the popular military-themed action figures, GI Joe: The Rise Of Cobra is an action adventure aimed squarely at teenage boys with limited attention spans.

Stephen Sommers's muscular, all-guns-blazing romp has big weapons, bigger explosions and visual effects-heavy sequences in abundance.

There are plentiful flashbacks, which account for the near two-hour running time, and rapid-fire editing that marches in double time with Alan Silvestri's booming score.

A prologue, set in mid-17th century France, establishes the unfortunate history of the clan fronted by arms dealer James McCullen (Christopher Eccleston), whose company has invented a nanobyte missile capable of razing an entire city in minutes.

Best friends Duke (Channing Tatum) and Ripcord (Marlon Wayans) are part of the security detail hired by McCullen to protect his state-of-the-art warheads. Alas, The Baroness (Sienna Miller) and her minions attempt to steal the payload, only to be thwarted by an elite team of soldiers called GI Joe and led by General Hawk (Dennis Quaid).

Duke and Ripcord quickly enrol, working hard in the gym and the training simulators to build physical strength and shooting accuracy. Meanwhile, The Baroness and her cohorts in terror – Storm Shadow (Byung-hun Lee) and master of disguise Zartan (Arnold Vosloo) – prepare to take the fight to the Egyptian desert and deep below the polar ice-caps under the aegis of their commander, the mysterious Destro. GI Joe careers through its set pieces at a brisk pace, quickly establishing the romantic past of Duke and The Baroness in flashback, though not in enough gooey detail to gross out the target teenage audience.

Tatum and Wayans blast and sprint into the melee with the occasional one-liner, but like the rest of the cast they continually take a back seat to the effects, some of which are extremely amateurish and clumsy.

Brendan Fraser, who played the lead in The Mummy for director Sommers, enjoys a brief, uncredited cameo as Duke's superior.

The final scene clearly tees up a sequel, but it's hard to imagine this opening instalment making enough money to warrant successive tours of duty.

THE UGLY TRUTH certificate 15 1h36m

The battle of the sexes turns ugly in the new romantic comedy from director Robert Luketic.

Uproariously funny in places and politically incorrect to the point of offensiveness in others, The Ugly Truth is as reassuringly predictable as it is unexpectedly potty-mouthed with a voracious appetite for sex talk that marks out the film as distinctly adult fare.

While the contrived denouement will surprise no-one, the underlying message of the picture will, enforcing the notion that a woman should flaunt her cleavage and leave her brain in a make-up bag to land her dream man.

Abby (Katherine Heigl) is a talented producer on a morning television show fronted by feuding husband-and-wife team Larry (John Michael Higgins) and Georgia (Cheryl Hines).

Abby cannot find a man to win her heart and her negative perception of the hairier of the species is enforced by the arrival of chauvinistic guest commentator Mike Chadway (Gerard Butler), who makes a bold claim: by following his directions, Abby can seduce handsome next-door neighbour, Colin (Eric Winter).

She nervously agrees to become Mike's protégée and as his outdated theories reap rewards, Chadway realises that Abby could be the woman of his dreams too.

ORPHAN certificate 15 2h02m

A little girl in search of a loving family proves a handful for her adopted parents in Jaume Collet-Serra's brutal thriller, which has somehow been classified a 15 certificate.

Kate Coleman (Vera Farmiga) and her husband John (Peter Sarsgaard) are devastated by the loss of their unborn child, who they name Jessica. Therapist Dr Browning (Margo Martindale) attempts to heal the deep emotional wounds but Kate's alcoholism, which almost led to their young daughter drowning, continues to drive the couple apart and so they decide to re-ignite that loving feeling by adopting a child.

They visit an orphanage run by Sister Abigail (CCH Pounder) and fall in love with lonely Russian girl Esther (Isabelle Fuhrman). Instantly smitten, Kate and John complete the paperwork and bring Esther home to meet their brood: Daniel (Jimmy Bennett) and profoundly deaf daughter Max (Aryana Engineer).

But little do the Colemans know that Esther has a secret – one that will bring death and misery to their community.

Scrap

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

A Brit of a right in club finale

THE appearance of Great Britain U-23 middle-distance runner Andrew Osagie boosted Harlow Athletic Club for their fifth and final Southern Men's League on Saturday.

Fresh from competing at the European U-23 Championships, the GB international helped the Mark Hall-based side to second spot in the meeting at St Ives in Cambridgeshire.

"With the major championships out of the way, I was pleased to compete as part of the Harlow team," said Osagie.

He showed his true club colours by competing in no less than EIGHT events – only to be outdone by Glen Paxman who competed in NINE!

Osagie won the 800m, the event in which he is the England U-23 champion (1st A string, 1min 57.7secs).

He ran a terrific 400m A-race to storm to victory in a time of 48.8s, equalling the Harlow AC record which had stood since 1997.

And he completed a hat-trick of track wins by taking another first in the 200m A-race in a time of 23.3s.

Demonstrating his all-round athleticism, he also competed in the high jump where he cleared the bar at 1.70m and in the triple jump with a leap of 12.91m, which secured A-string second places in both events.

Athletics

Jamie Solomon led the B field for most of the 800m race but was outspurred in the last 150m and had to be content with second place (2:14.0).

Glen Paxman secured four fine B string wins in the 400m (55.5s), 200m (24.0s), long jump (5.70m) and shot putt (9.08m) and was second in the B high jump (1.50m) and B triple jump (11.50m) and 3rd in the A 100m (12.2s).

Twin brother Carl Paxman was second in the A long jump (5.83m) and B javelin (35.96m).

Craig Snook took second places in both the A javelin (42.39m) and in the B pole vault (2.00m).

Ian Smith was second in the B 100m (12.4s).

Steve Down and Lloyd Ellis had the hard task of competing in all hurdle events. This resulted in a win for Ellis (B 19.4s) and third for Down (A 21.4s) in the 110m hurdles, and second places in the 400m hurdles (Down, A-string 61.4s and Ellis B 64.6s).

The killer event of the 3km steeplechase won the admiration of the team with Down in second (A, 12:56.7s) and third for Ellis (B, 15:48.6s).

Liam Mistry came third in the A 1,500m (4:36.5) and Robert Folan's first outing for the club resulted in a third spot in the A-string 5km race (22:6.2).

There was a win for Dave Bauer in the discus with a throw of 39.08m, some 10m ahead of the competition.

Despite a season's best throw of 35.33m, Bauer narrowly missed victory and had to be content with second place in the hammer.

Bauer also took second place in the shot (10.12m).

Chris Clark came second in the B hammer (21.22m) and third in the B discus (23.37m).

The match ended with the relays.

In the 4x100m the Harlow team was second (45.9s).

In the 4x400m, Jamie Solomon, Carl and Glen Paxman and Andrew Osagie finished in second place with a time of 3:36.9. Osagie's split time equalled his new 400m club record time of 48.8s!

Harlow finished just behind local rivals Herts Phoenix with 106 points, but ahead of Loughton and Huntingdon. This was Harlow's highest points score of the season.

Following this last match of the season, Harlow ended the season in division three north in sixth place. "The league was very close this year. We tied for fifth place on match points and only eight out of 485½ competition points separated us from fifth position," said team manager Catherine Bauer.

Steady as he goes for winning form

Welcome to Inside Track, our column that gives you the reader an insight into Harlow Greyhound Stadium as our top tipster reveals his favourites for tomorrow (Friday August 7).

STEADY MAJOR tasted defeat for the first time at Harlow Stadium last week but connections won't be too disappointed as he performed with great credit, finishing a gallant second.

Major's next assignment appears a straight-forward one and should resume winning ways at 9.45pm tomorrow.

LUKES BARNEY has been well supported in his first two races at Harlow but unfortunately for his backers, he has been unable to finish in front.

On his latest start he went down in many notebooks as an unlucky loser and this Friday's contest looks ideal for him to open his account.

Other greyhounds worth an interest include the ultra-consistent OFFSHORE KEY and the promising puppy GOLD EAGLE.

Selections for Friday August 7:-

7.30pm Lode Blue Buddha; 7.45pm Gold Eagle; 8pm Royal Point; 8.15pm Sportsmans Max; 8.30pm Lukes Barney; 8.45pm Minglers Minor; 9pm Buglys Dazzler; 9.15pm Ardmayle Honey; 9.30pm No Joke Christy; 9.45pm Steady Major; 10pm Offshore Key; 10.15pm Special Princess.

Tennis coach in GB success

TENNIS coach John Morris relished his first taste of coaching the Great Britain side at the European Junior Olympics.

The 27-year-old from Ram Gorse, Harlow, was team captain and coach for the GB U-15 team that competed in the prestigious tournament at Tampere in Finland.

Morven McCulloch (North Scotland) and Jazzamay Drew (Worcester) got to the last 16 in the girls before being knocked out, as did Jonathan Cornish (Billericay) in the boys event.

Josh Ward-Hibbert reached the last eight of the singles.

"This was not the strongest team we could have taken to the games so it's a really good performance by the team and we were the only nation to get all four players to the last sixteen," Morris told Star Sport.

"It's very encouraging and shows we have great strength in depth and this can also be good for the future."

Josh Ward-Hibbert and

Jonathan Cornish lost to the silver medalists in the doubles and were beaten by Denmark in the bronze medal play-off match.

Morris works at the LTA training centre in Welwyn Garden City, one of only three international high performance centres in the UK.

Athletes secure U-17 title

FIVE Harlow-based athletes helped Essex to win the Southern Inter Counties U-17s title for the fourth consecutive year at the K2 stadium in Crawley.

With only 48 hours' notice after a late withdrawal, 15-year-old Burnt Mill School student Sophie Fuhr did well.

She was fifth with a personal best (PB) of 42.5s in the A-string 300m.

Mark Hall School's Daniel Yaxley, 16, also set a PB of 4:47.5 when he came 5th in the A 1,500m steeplechase.

Tom Richards (javelin, 48.80m) and Amy Larkin (hammer, 27.80m) both triumphed in their B-string events, while Tom Larkin came 4th in the 400m in 52.8s.

In an open meeting at Watford on Wednesday last week, 14-year-olds Tyler Bown (Mark Hall) and Jordan Harvey (St Mark's School) showed their talents in the U-15s.

Tyler set a PB of 55.67s when he came first in the 400m and Jordan won the high jump (1.60m).

Others to achieve PBs were Sophie Fuhr (62.2s in 400m), 15-year-old Lauren Freeman (800m in 2:46.7), 13-year-old Joanne Cywinski (400m, 65.0s) and Yaxley (400m, 54.3s and javelin, 40.37m).

Strong displays came from Joanne Ryan and Kathrine Foy when they competed in the British Women's League athletics meeting in Scotland on Sunday.

Ryan (22), from North Weald, was 2nd in the A 400m (56.47s) and Foy (18), from Epping, came second in the B 800m in 2:17.2 and fourth in the 1,500m (5:28.8) when they ran for Woodford Green AC.

Cont'd from back

At Leigh, home batsmen Rob Catchpole (29), Dean Waller (45) and Mark Sexton (37) played the major innings before the hosts were bowled out for 189.

Harlow debutant Andre Riddell took a stunning diving catch to get rid of a Leigh tailender.

Butler added: "Jason McNally (5-62) and Maruf Chowdhury (4-30) bowled really well on a good deck and we had plenty of time to chase 190."

After losing Chowdhury (22) and Nick Butler (1), Harlow had reached 135-2 from only 22.5 overs with Darren Green showing some of his early season form in making 47 not out.

Opener Rehman Ahmed batted maturely to make 52 not out.

Other results: Harlow II (132; Ryan Jessey 49) lost to Leigh-on-Sea (134-4) by six wickets; Harlow III (126-8) v Walthamstow (104-3), match abandoned; Harlow IV (140-8; Anthony Webb 65) bt Loughton V (136) Dave Cooney 5-14 by two wickets.

Hawks get lifeline

"I want to go into Saturday's game [at Bedford] with a first team squad," said Anstead.

Ex-Bishop's Stortford midfielder Jason Mason may join Harlow but there is competition for his signature while former Cheshunt striker Julian Edwards is another possible addition. "I would like to sign Jason. He has been offered quite a lot by Concord Rangers. I would say it is 50-50," said Anstead. "We are confident of getting Julian. He has played at this level a lot and was excellent against Chelmsford."

Anstead's other priority is a keeper and Declan Barker (ex-Colchester United) was set to play last night, as was midfielder Ben Butler.

Third straight win

HARLOW Squash Club's second team won 2-1 at Letchworth to record their third consecutive win in the Herts Squash League division four.

First string Vinh Tram lost a gruelling encounter 3-2 after fighting back from two sets down, while second string Rob Coghlan triumphed 15-10, 15-13, 15-13. Third string Richard Lewis won 15-8, 15-11, 15-6.

Nomads ready for new home

THE future is once again looking bright for Harlow Penguins Swimming Club after a nomadic existence over the last two years.

The club was handicapped when the pool in First Avenue closed due to health and safety reasons two years ago.

However, the Penguins has been buoyed after being confirmed as the resident club at Harlow's new community leisure centre.

This facility in Second Avenue is set to open this December.

Carmen Byfield, the club's head coach, said: "This is fantastic, we have such an exciting time ahead of us, we can't wait to get into the new pool and really up our game. Things are only going to get better."

Swimming

She added: "The closure of the town pool in 2007 was devastating for the club. We lost members due to lack of facilities and it has been very hard for us.

"Despite this, our dedicated swimmers have continued to compete in all galas."

The Penguins currently train out of three venues; Burnt Mill School in Harlow, Leventhorpe School in Sawbridgeworth and Haileybury College in Hertford Heath. Additional learn to swim classes are run on Tuesdays (at Burnt Mill, 6.30pm).

When the Penguins move into the new leisure centre, early morning swimming weekdays and weekends, masters swimming, and a club night will all be re-introduced at the venue which will house two swimming pools (25m and 20m).

The club is working with Active Harlow to relaunch swimming in Harlow in 2010.

Jonathan Chan, the club secretary, said: "We are applying for lottery funding and expect to hold galas at the new pool.

"We have pledged to hold an invitation gala for local clubs who knew the late Eric Shepherd [founder of Harlow Penguins]. This will be a trophy gala which we hope will become a regular event."

Harlow Penguins will have a stand at the Town Show in September.

● THE club is keen to hear from volunteers and teachers who wish to become involved. For more information go to www.harlowpenguins.com

A victory to be champions - no Thorl order

A RECORD-breaking bid to win every division two game this season was halted by the weather.

Harlow Town's title pursuit was held up by the rain on Saturday after their match was abandoned following a heavy downpour.

However, the Ash Tree Field side are still red-hot favourites for promotion.

A victory in their next game at home to Thorley will ensure promotion and crown them division two champions.

Town were chasing a moderate target of 161 for victory and

High Roding II 160 Harlow Tn 105-2

Herts & Essex Cricket League, division two were forced off the field when on 104-2 with 18 overs remaining.

Vic Goddard's men still picked up 10 bonus points for their efforts.

Earlier, Town produced some disciplined bowling to dismiss High Roding IIs for just 160. Roding's Brett Pinning batted well, hitting Simon Rowell for 19 runs off his first over.

Rowell struck back later, however, bowling Pinning for 58 and claiming three wickets in total.

Town looked favourites in the run chase before rain intervened with Pat Yates unbeaten on 46.

In division three, Potter Street (180-7) are fifth after defeating Nazeing Common (156) by 24 runs.

Harlow Town IIs beat the rain to complete their match against Thaxted and keep their place on top of division four. Charlie Coleman top scored with 73 runs as Town compiled a total of 276.

Thaxted never looked like chasing the total down and fell 104 runs short with David Pistorious, Nick Teale and Jack Elston all taking two wickets apiece.

Harlow Town IIIs maintained their promotion push with a 25-run win over High Roding IIIs.

Town had the experienced head of Ian Souter (71) to thank as they mustered 176. Tony Gardiner then claimed six wickets to dismiss High Roding for 151.

Harlow net draw with Shrimpers

Harlow Tn 3, Southend Utd XI 3
Friendly

By DAVID RIMMER
rimmerd@hertsessexnews.co.uk

CLOSE WATCH: Southend United's Scotland international striker Dougie Freedman, right, keeps a close eye on Hawks midfielder Jason Mason at Barrows Farm on Saturday (YHWCKLPZ10)

A HEARTENING display was produced by the newly-assembled Hawks squad as they held a strong Southend United side to a draw.

Harlow showed a real threat going forward against the Coca-Cola League One side who included six players with first team experience. They included Scotland international and former Nottingham Forest striker Dougie Freedman.

Saturday's game was Anthony Anstead's second in charge at Harlow and he had mixed feelings about the outcome.

"If you told me beforehand this was going to happen I would have been happy and we scored three good goals but I felt we could have won it," he said straight after the match.

"Their second goal looked offside. We may not have conceded the third goal if we had stuck with 4-4-2, but it gave me a chance to try out players and different formations. Marc Clarey was fantastic for us at the back."

He added: "There is a lot to do and we are not fit enough."

The start was delayed by 20 minutes as Southend were delayed in traffic.

On 16 minutes, shortly after Freedman had volleyed over a good chance for the visitors, Harlow went ahead.

Lorenz Ferrari, a former Boreham Wood striker, charged down the clearance of Shrimpers keeper Daniel Bentley and the ball deflected into the net.

The visitors equalised on 23 minutes. Craig Calver fired home after Hawks keeper Nathaniel spilled a free-kick.

After Julian Edwards lobbed against the Southend bar, he restored Hawks' advantage on 36 minutes with a powerful header.

A James Edgerley free-kick clipped a Southend post shortly before Freedman fired home from 12 yards on 40 minutes to make it 2-2.

Former Cheshunt player Eric Manangu tucked home to put Harlow back in front on 57 minutes after a neat through ball from Tom Query.

Southend's ex-Spurs striker Lee Barnard levelled when he stabbed in from close range on 74 minutes for the visitors.

Southend had the edge and shortly before the end, Freedman had a shot cleared off the line.

Southend United reserves boss in player pledge

RICKY Duncan has pledged to help the Hawks in any way he can.

The Southend United reserve team boss, who lives in Brook Lane Field in Harlow, has said he will continue to loan players to the Ryman League club.

In previous campaigns, Duncan has loaned several youngsters to the Hawks including talented forward James Lindie.

Duncan, who managed the Southend XI which held Harlow to a 3-3 draw, said: "It's a good club. Harlow is my home town and I would love to help. We will be more than happy in loaning out young players such as second-year trainees."

Duncan praised Anthony Anstead, pictured right, for taking on the job at Harlow and feels that the troubled club can hold their own this season. "He deserves a lot of credit for taking the job on and deserves support," said Duncan.

"If they show the work ethic they did it will be an OK season for them."

They showed they have some quality."

Anstead, appointed 10 days ago, has been busy assembling a squad for their division one north campaign.

Central defender Laurie Stewart and utility player Clark Akers, who were in Alzapiedi's squad, have quit. Harlow have now lost more than 12 players recruited by previous manager Glen Alzapiedi.

However, Anstead signed eight players this week. Centre-backs Marc Clarey (ex-Cheshunt), Liam Thomas and Gary Edwards (from Hillingdon Borough) and right-back Michael Moore have signed, while left-back Tom Query has pledged to remain at the club and has re-signed.

Left winger Lorenz Ferrari (ex-Boreham Wood) and right winger Reece Dobson have also signed, as has striker Eric Manangu (ex-Cheshunt).

The league campaign starts in nine days when Harlow host Great Waking Rovers.

Anstead is hoping to complete more signings before Harlow's friendly at Bedford Town this Saturday. The Hawks were due to play Boreham Wood in a pre-season friendly last night (Wednesday).
